

Looking for Loci

a debut exhibit of the San Francisco Mobile Museum

Opening: Friday, Aug. 28, 5 - 9pm

Sat/Sun. Aug. 29-30th 12 - 5pm

Hosted by the Studio for Urban Projects

3579 17th Street (at Dolores) San Francisco, CA 94110

Alan Disparte [childhood farm]

Dinah Grey [bunny's tail]

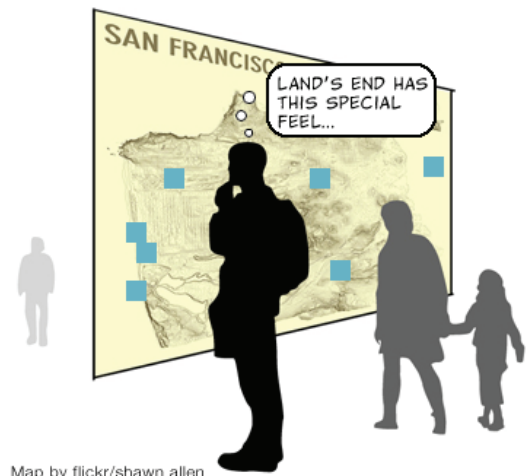

Marcia Stuermer [Ross Alley]

Have you ever found a place in your home, neighborhood or city, and felt an invisible energy, almost like magic?

In Roman culture, this was called "Genius Loci", which referred to a location's distinctive atmosphere, or spirit. In our urban environments these places can be more difficult to find, or lost altogether— but they do exist.

We asked 37 citizens of San Francisco + Denver to locate these special places and create a visual tribute to them. Come to the opening of the Mobile Museum to see the results, and add your special place stories to our Bay Area Map.

Map by flickr/shawn allen

e: info@sfmobilemuseum.org | b: sfmobilemuseum.blogspot.com

w: www.sfmobilemuseum.org | p: 415 - 315- 9592